

Clarify Status Of Enlisted Reserve Corps

From the V. Rev. Aloys H. Dirksen, C.P.P.S., president of St. Joseph's College, came an official announcement concerning all students—both those in the enlisted reserve corps and those subject to Selective Service.

The announcement states these six provisions:

1. All students in the 18-19 year old age brackets, who are not in a reserve, will be called by Selective Service according to age. (Thus, the 18-year-olds should have a good chance of finishing the second semester.)

2. Army Enlisted Reserve Corps Unassigned will begin to be called about two weeks after the close of the current semester.

3. Young men inducted under the provisions of the above two paragraphs, will be given three months' basic training in a regular camp. Then they will be tested to select those who will be assigned for further college instruction.

4. Men of the enlisted reserves and those subject to Selective Service who are pre-medical and pre-dental beyond their first year; those who have completed a year of standard work in engineering; and those majoring in Physics,

Chemistry, and Bacteriology within two years of graduation are to be continued in college at least until the end of this academic year (June, 1943.)

5. Men in the enlisted reserves of the Navy (V-1, V-5, V-7) will be continued in college until June without an interval of three months basic training. (Enlistment in the Navy's V-1 is open for men under 18 until March 15, 1943.)

6. It is the plan of the War Manpower, in the near future, to select between 200 and 300 colleges and universities for purposes of returning to college men inducted in the army after they have completed three months' basic training.

Captain Esser Urges Students Stay In College Until Called

Father Gordon Talks To Commerce Club

Featuring a short address by the Rev. Albert Gordon, C.P.P.S., Moderator, the Commerce Club held its first meeting since the termination of the holidays on Monday, Jan. 4. Fr. Gordon addressed the group on the new national currency and its relation to the business world.

Ed Ritter, president of the organization, announces that the members will meet again Monday, Jan. 18.

Med Students Ready For Aptitude Test

Under the supervision of the Rev. Clarence J. Kroeckel, C.P.P.S., head of the Science Department, the medical aptitude test will be given to students of the pre-medical department. Those wishing to take the test must appear before Father Kroeckel at three o'clock on the afternoon of January 22.

Faculty members and students of St. Joseph's College were happy to entertain a professor on leave of absence in the person of Capt. Gilbert Esser, C.P.P.S., Chaplain of the 79th Infantry Division now stationed at Camp Blanding, Fla.

Addressing a special assembly in the College Theatre, Chaplain Esser strongly urged students to complete their studies wherever possible in accordance with the expressed wish of governmental authorities.

Father Esser began his Army work when he was appointed (in 1934) to care for the spiritual needs of the C. C. C. camps at Monon and Medaryville. In November, 1936, he was commissioned a First Lieutenant in the Army Reserve.

Call To Arms 1941

Called to active duty with the regular Army, June 27, 1941, he took up his appointment as Post Chaplain at Ft. Devens, Mass., with the rank of Captain. In May, 1942, he moved with his regiment to Camp Pickett, Va., on maneuvers, and was then sent to Camp Blanding, Fla. (Father Esser was succeeded at Camp Pickett by the late Rev. Clement Falter, C.P.P.S., who died in action on November 8, in North Africa.

Assemble Machine To Detect Fumes Of Poison Gases

Doing its part in the war effort, the Albertus Magnus Society began to formulate plans for the organization of a Civilian Defense group at a recent meeting, held last Friday evening, January 8.

A special feature of the meeting was the explanation of an aspirator, an assembly to be used in the detection of common war gases through chemical means. The machine was constructed by the Rev. Albert Wuest, C.P.P.S., moderator of the society.

According to Father Wuest the aspirator is to detect the presence of gases without hand pumping or electrical connections and without personal attendance for an appreciable time wherever it might be placed.

Also Used To Analyze

Provision is made by the outfit not only to aspirate the general atmosphere, but also the air-flow analysis of soil, clothing, and foods. The entire apparatus is substantially unbreakable and light enough to be carried by one or two men. It is also so constructed that it can be lowered by rope into places where gases might be, but where it would be inadvisable to enter.

In explaining its advantages, Father Wuest stated that though smell can usually determine gas, the aspirator is a more sure method since it eliminates the possibility of the gases being undetectable through a disguised odor.

However, "sniff sets," which are comprised of the common gases, will be obtained later on.

The aspirator will be used here on the campus as an implement of Civilian Defense.

J. Shields In USMMC

James Shields, sophomore from Fort Wayne, Ind., formerly from Fostoria, Ohio, passed the physical examination of the Merchant Marine at Indianapolis, Ind., over the holidays and is now waiting to be called by that branch of the service.

Francis Meyers Has Appendix Operation

Francis Meyers, freshman from Indianapolis, Indiana, is on his way to recovery in the Jasper county hospital in Rensselaer. He underwent an appendectomy last Sunday evening.

Sanguinists Observe Church Unity Octave From Jan. 18 to 25

Observance of the Church Unity Octave beginning January 18 and closing on the Feast of the Conversion of St. Paul, January 25, will take place at St. Joseph's this year, it was decided at a meeting of the Sanguinist Club for Catholic Action held last Monday evening in Science Hall.

Those desiring to observe the octave are requested to hear Mass, receive Holy Communion, and attend Benediction, at which time special prayers will be offered for the return of all those outside the Church.

Keep Sanguinist Bulletin

Students are to keep their next issue of the Sanguinist Bulletin, for it will contain the necessary prayers for the octave.

It was also announced at the meeting that the Rev. Cletus Dirksen, C.P.P.S., will deliver the second in a series of talks on the Pope's Social Encyclicals. Father Dirksen's topic will be "The Nature of the Social Man."

Many Faculty Attend Funerals Of Relatives

Absent from the campus during the past week were several members of the college faculty. The Revs. Walter T. Pax, C.P.P.S., Paul F. Speckbaugh, C.P.P.S., Cletus F. Dirksen, C.P.P.S., and Joseph Otte, C.P.P.S., attended the funerals of relatives and friends.

Musical Inspiration Theme Of Group Appearing Jan. 16

Magnificent ensemble singing... splendid solo voices... feminine charm and dramatic presentation. This is what Collegeville may expect next Saturday evening, Jan. 16, as the "Ladies of Song" make their appearance in the College Theatre.

The ensemble will divide its program into three parts, the Formal Concert—sacred, classical, and operatic numbers of such men as Bach, Handel, and Schubert; the Musical Fiesta—South American costuming, marked with the rhythm of Bizet, Ravel, and Chavez; and the songs of America—folk songs, and patriotic numbers.

Rated Important and Morale

This program has been rated by the Advisory Board of School Assembly Service as important to student morale and inspiration.

For the past three years this group, first associated in the Broadway operetta, "The Student Prince," has been presenting musical programs before the public.

The group consists of Delia Marshall, Bernice Fowler, Pauline Dohrn, Helen Jones, and Grace Prince, piano virtuoso.

This program will be the first after-Christmas event on the entertainment calendar. The "Ladies of Song" are the sixth group on the theatre series for 1942-43. The next scheduled entertainment is Mary Hutchinson, Shakespearean actress, on February 6.

YOU KNOW, OF ALL THE New Years, the dawn of 1943 was perhaps the most promising, and yet the most confusing.

Certainly the distant horizon seemed brighter this year than it had for many years gone by. There were encouraging, hopeful words from those whose duty it is to guide the destiny of our world at war. And there was a spark of hope in the hearts of all men that this year, maybe next, may see a victorious conclusion to the present international chaos.

Still, while the distant horizon seemed bright indeed, the path between the present and the future was filled with shadows and indecision.

It was not easy for college men to return to their books and their classrooms after two weeks in their home towns. It was not easy for several reasons. In the first place, they found themselves quite alone at home. Most of the men with whom they had gone to high school were now in uniform, their star firmly planted on the ever-growing honor roll. At home there were only the old, and the very young.

And in the second place, it was not easy because this absence of those who were so much a part of other years, coupled with an attitude of suspicion on the part of many older folk, left a bad taste in students' mouths. There was also a third factor in the situation, a thing which has always bothered the young: A sort of wanderlust to see and do, and hear and know the momentous things that are happening in the far reaches of the earth. It was not easy for college men to return to their books and their classrooms after two weeks in their home towns. But those who were aware of their greatest duty did so. They did so because they knew that in the war of reconstruction, which always follows peace, guns and bullets will be of little use. There will be need of trained minds. There will be need of leaders, of originators.

Students were not fooling themselves. It was a matter of cold, hard fact. Their decision did not take the same kind of courage it takes to face a sputtering machine gun. But it took an equal amount of another kind. The student who was really sincere about it all had made up his mind: He would stay in college until Uncle Sam called him. He would stay in college because that was what Uncle Sam had asked him to do.

REMEMBER TO KEEP the copy of the Sanguinist Bulletin which will be distributed Saturday. You will find it contains all the prayers which will be said during the observance of the Church Unity Octave, January 18 to 25. Make it a point to have the Bulletin with you when you go to nightly Benediction.

Following the Flickers

With Dick Schreiber

LOCAL MOVIE FANS who have been asking themselves when "Pride of the Yankees" and "Yankee Doodle Dandy" will be coming to the local theatres will be glad to know that both flickers have been booked by the manager. Harvey (Doc) Arlington, of the Rensselaer Theatre Corporation, assures your writer that "Yankee Doodle Dandy" will be here the latter part of this month.

"Yankee Doodle Dandy" will follow the life-story of the late, great George M. Cohan. The date is still indefinite.

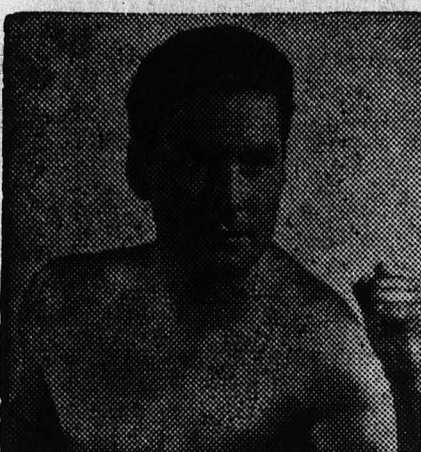

Reason for booking these shows rather late is that the management will offer the pictures at the regular admission prices. There will be no increase in the price of tickets for either show, even though metropolitan cinema houses nearly doubled the admission price when they exhibited the pictures.

Now for the previews.

RITZ: Friday & Saturday

"Lost Canyon" is another of the Hopalong Cassidy stories which stars Bill Boyd. Good western fare . . . if you like westerns. Legion Rating: A-1.

PALACE: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

Errol Flynn and sparkling Alexis Smith are on the silver screen together in "Gentleman Jim," the story of James J. Corbett. Legion Rating: A-1.

Your writer saw this release late last year and can assure you it is one of Flynn's best pictures. You'll like it for the rousing, heart-warming story it tells of that fighting Irish family, the Corbetts.

RITZ: Sunday, Monday, Tuesday

RITZ: Wednesday & Thursday

CAMPUS CAPERS

Welcome back and Happy New Year to all of you. Coming on the train from Chicago we saw John Pepper get a hot mouth. His two buddies, John Condo and Heine (Hips) Gromczewski, loaded his cigarette. Jack vowed never to smoke another O. P. . . . We read a report that Carl Dietrick was doing well with a certain Lapsys in East St. Louis. Try agin Stan. We take this opportunity to present Bob Cavey with a bouquet of capers. We wish him good luck in his new venture. . . . Warning to Dave Ter-veer "Good looking boys can be traded for a War Stamp." Ed (Phone-head) Bandjough talks in his sleep. "Slumber please." Duck Graetz got a white Xmas. He had dandruff on his shoulders. Jim (body beautiful) Sheehan is a confirmed believer in Atlas. Also Bill Kennedy believes in Ry-crisp. Dave Walsh dresses formal at all times. He wears that blue boat coat.

Resolutions for 1943:

Joe Crance—To crack a smile once in a while.
Wetzel Twins—Not to bother the Drexel mailman.
Vilim—To have my hair cut at least once a year.
Tom Cooney was so run down after the holidays that he was forced to hook one of Jim Shields' belts to keep up his morale. . . . Mungie Rowland was put in his place by one of the pros. It seems Mungie has a very hard time remaining silent. He put in his two cents once too often. He was reprimanded with the following: "Rowland, you remind me of a big empty box with two marbles constantly rolling around in it." A pretty nifty description in any man's language. . . . What do you think of a fellow who falls out of bed in the early morn? Precisely what we thought; but Jiggs Huysman is giving the excuse that the bed is too short. . . . In the lost and found column we would like to add the names of Gene Hoffman and Bennie Bladel. They lost their girls. Also added to the list is one slightly used razor blade and a lead pencil. Anyone having any information on the above items, please notify LeRoy Huenfeld, or his very close friend, Allen Briar.

Another League Of Nations Needed?

By Vincent Giese

In periodic talks, vice-president Henry Wallace has been making post-war peace proposals. Among the ideas which the vice-president has put forth is the idea of another large league of nations, whose authority would be backed by an international air squadron.

The need of some type of future war preventative is being realized very keenly among diplomatic circles. President Roosevelt may have been intimating at such a protective in his annual address before the new congress when he stated that "we cannot maintain peace on good intentions. This we have learned from the last war and peace treaty."

Nevertheless, this much is certain: "A decent peace and an endurable peace," to quote the president, is, next to victory, our greatest objective. Therefore post war peace proposals should be one of the uppermost things in our minds, especially in the minds of the youth; for the outcome of this war will most directly affect us and our wellbeing.

With these thoughts in mind STUFF approached the students this week with these questions: What are your reactions to Wallace's proposals? Are they favorable? If not, what do you suggest? Here are the answers.

Kenneth Platt, sophomore from Canton, Ohio, says, "A league of nations is needed, there is no doubt about it, and I like the idea of the family circles within the league which Wallace proposes. But I don't think he was strong enough when he said that these must be ruled on broad principals. The new league must be stronger than the last one. Also, I don't think that the Atlantic Charter was ever intended to be interpreted as to give immediate independence to the Hotintots of South Africa."

Here are the words of Quentin Finnegan, sophomore from Shelby, Ohio. "I do not think that a league backed by a police force will work out too well, for nations will still be out for their own good. However, Wallace's plan is about the best suggestion put forth so far."

If no other plan is suggested, Wallace's will probably be followed. If

One of the more active members of St. Joseph's senior class is Francis Leo Kinney from Ironton, Ohio. Born November 8, 1921, Francis has lived there ever since; he attended St. Joseph's High School there and was quite active in various school activities.

Among his high school achievements was a Mendelssohn concerto which he gave upon graduation from his piano work; he was also chosen valedictorian of his class.

At St. Joseph's College, Francis is majoring in philosophy; he will enter a major seminary in preparation for the priesthood after he has graduated next May.

Various offices which he has held during his time at St. Joe are editor of Measure, president of the Columbian Literary Society, vice-president of the Sanguinist Club, treasurer of the senior class. He holds membership in the Raleigh Club, is a member of the Phase staff, and was accompanist for the glee club for three years.

In his sophomore year, Francis won the Cogan medal for having the highest scholastic average of the class; as a freshman he won second place in the Pursley Literary Contest.

so the new international body should follow the plan of the last league; but it must be more powerful. It must be compulsory."

Carl R. Caston, sophomore from Akron, Ohio, believes, "If there is an international air squadron, each country will try to dominate. Countries would be working for their own welfare, not for the common (Continued on Page Three)

Pumas Tangle With Great Lakes Five

St. Joe Topples Illinois Normal 51-48 Here

Puma Prints

By John Feicht

Tonight's the night! St. Joe meets Great Lakes at Ft. Wayne. How do the experts pick it? We don't care. St. Joe is the team for us. We realize that this Great Lakes quintet is an All-American machine, but don't sell the Pumas short. After all, they have downed Loyola of Chicago and an Illinois Normal quintet which was undefeated before it came to Collegeville last Saturday evening. All we have to say is that the Sailors will know they have been in a ball game before the night is over.

Here is a recap of the St. Joe scoring prior to the Great Lakes tussle.

Player	FG	FT	T
Hoffman	27	13	67
Walsh	8	11	27
Huysman	9	8	26
G. Hodges	13	10	37
Schrenk	8	8	24
Mikan	6	0	12
Mullen	3	0	6
Terveer	1	1	3
C. Hodges	1	0	2
Krouse	1	0	2

Total 77 51 205

This gives the Pumas an offensive average of 41 points per game. The opponents have been held to a 36-point average.

Knobby Walsh probably made his final appearance on the local floor Saturday night as he is scheduled to leave for the Army shortly. He will be available for several road games. The loss of Knobby will mean much to the Pumas as this native of Kentucky is a great team player.

In scoring 13 points against the Red Birds of Illinois Normal Saturday evening, Jiggs Huysman equalled his scoring total in the first four St. Joe contests. Although only registering four tallies in the Loyola game, it was his backboard play that gave the Pumas their 33-30 victory over the Windy City outfit.

Freshman Tom Ronan of Chicago showed no partiality in an intra-mural game last week. He very obligingly scored a goal for the opponents as well as one for his own club.

The handicap system as employed in the I-M bowling league showed to advantage last week when two games were decided by a single pin.

Academy Publishes Own Paper Every Two Weeks

Replacing the Academy Corner, which formerly appeared on page four of STUFF, is the Cub, a semi-monthly bulletin devoted to the activities of St. Joseph's Academy. The paper is edited by Ed McElroy.

Style of the Cub is still in a state of change according to the editor. If a better banner and column arrangement can be worked out the present style will be shelved.

There will also be an attempt made to have the paper mimeographed on the campus. The first edition was manufactured in Chicago.

Nip-Tuck Battle Keeps Slate Clean Against Red Birds

Coach Joe Dienhart's Puma quintet hung up their fourth straight victory last Saturday night in a close contest with the Illinois Normal Red Birds. At the end of forty minutes playing time the fieldhouse scoreboard showed St. Joe possessing fifty-one points to Normal's forty-eight.

The Pumas led 27-19 at halftime, but Coach Cogdal's proteges promptly tied the count at 28-28 early in the second half. The Red Birds managed to tie the score three more times before the final gun but were not able to forge ahead.

Center Jiggs Huysman broke through with six field goals and one gift shot to lead the Cardinal and Purple scoring. His efforts, however, were topped by Red Bird forward Frieburg who split the nets for sixteen counters.

Curtain Club Stages New One-Act Play

Forty minutes of fine acting provided a treat for the members of the Curtain Club at their regular meeting last Sunday. Linus Brungardt ably filled the leading role of a rather difficult one-act play.

He was assisted by Ed Mattingly, Jerry Koller, Clem Alt, Dick Reimundo, Bernard Joliat, Ed Franke, and Fred Gschwind. The play was directed by an Executive Committeeman, William Wise.

In addition to the play, there was a discussion of the work on the insignia of the club and other business. The Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S., moderator, spoke briefly before the end of the meeting.

Students Must Furnish Own Bed Linens

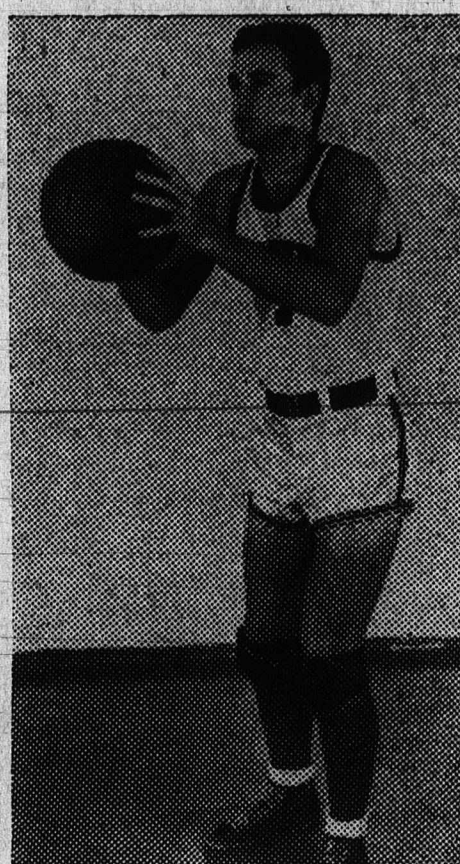

As previously announced in a letter to students' parents during the Christmas holidays, it will be necessary after Feb. 1, the beginning of the second semester, for students to furnish all of their own bedding, including bed linens.

During the past semester students have been required to furnish only blankets and spreads. However, a change has been necessitated by the difficulty in replacing worn bed-clothes and also by the prevalent labor shortage in the laundry. In the future, arrangements for the laundering of linens must be made by the students themselves.

This innovation affects residents of the college department only.

Ready For Bluejackets

Capt. Bernie Hoffman (left) and Knobby Walsh will lead the Pumas' attack on the Bluejackets of the Great Lakes Naval Training Center. The game will be played tonight in Fort Wayne.

Meet Sailors On Fort Wayne Floor For Navy Relief

SJC basketballers will be out to sink the Sailors of Great Lakes Naval Training Station tonight when they meet the Bluejackets in an engagement at Ft. Wayne. In this the third meeting between the two clubs the Pumas will be out for revenge as the Great Lakes crew twice sank the Dienhartmen last season.

Four points made the difference as the Sailors took the first engagement, 52-48, but in the second meeting the Bluejackets had little trouble in disposing of the Pumas 68-48. That Great Lakes outfit of last season compiled a record of 31 wins in 36 contests with some of the best college teams in the country as opponents.

Three Regulars Up Again

Tonight's tilt will find three St. Joe regulars who faced the Sailors last season. Capt. Bernie Hoffman, forward Knobby Walsh, who was regarded as one of the best players opposing the Navy team last season, and center Jiggs Huysman will be out to continue the Cardinal and Purple winning streak which has reached four games. Gil Hodges and Don Schrenk will round out the quintet.

For the Naval five Lt. Paul D. (Tony) Hinkle will probably use Eddie Riska, a former Notre Dame luminary and member of the Oshkosh All Star professional club last season, at one forward, teaming with Bob Davies of Seton Hall fame. The latter faced the Pumas when they made their Eastern invasion two years ago.

Six Foot-Two Center

At center Dick Klein, a former Northwestern star and one of the two returning members of the 1941-42 Bluejacket team, will oppose big Jiggs Huysman for the rebounds. Klein stands at six feet two inches. The guard post will be held by Bob Dietz, the former Butler captain, and Gilbert Huffman, who achieved collegiate fame at the U. of Tennessee or George Hamburg, a graduate of Colorado University and a player of exceptional defensive ability.

This will not be the first time that St. Joe teams have met opponents coached by Lt. Hinkle. The Bluejacket mentor was at the head of the Butler athletic department when the Puma gridders dethroned the Bulldogs as Indiana Conference champs two seasons ago in the early stages of their undefeated trail.

Phase Photo Contest

Winners Announced

Winners of the Phase Camera Club contest, held on the St. Joe campus, have been selected. To offer all entrants an equal chance the contest was divided into two classes. In class A, where 33 participated, were the more complicated cameras with fast lenses, while in class B, with only five contestants, were the box cameras and other fixed-focused cameras.

In class A, first prize was given to "That Tattle-tale Camera" by Walter Donahue, Cleveland; second prize, "Song of Bernadette" by Richard Trost, Zanesville, Ohio; honorable mention, "Reaching to The Sky" by Tom Burger, Tiffin, Ohio.

Winners in class B were first prize, "Gethsemane on The Campus" by David Zaumeyer, Milwaukee; second prize, "Tranquility" by Tom Freiburger, Fort Wayne; honorable mention, "Pax" by John Feicht, Canton, Ohio.

Judges for the contest were the Revs. John Baechle, C.P.P.S., Albert Gordon, C.P.P.S., and Francis Hehn, C.P.P.S. Each class received $5.00; the first prize was $3.00, the second $1.50.

Pukelis, Kremp Tied In First Place In Intra-Mural Bowling

As the I-M bowling league passed the half way mark, two teams are tied for the lead. Both the Pukelis and Kremp outfits have won six games and lost two. Both of the Kremp defeats were at the hands of the Pukelis quintet. Each team has three matches or six games remaining on the schedule.

After the first four matches, Johnny Feicht heads the individual bowlers with a 174 average. Joe Hanley, of the same team is in the second slot with 158. Highest single team game has been rolled by the Feicht outfit with a 735 total. The team headed by Stan Pukelis has the highest two-game series with a total of 1434 pins.

Sprinkle a few influenza germs in a print shop where the Selective Service Act has already thinned the printers' ranks and you have only one thing: trouble. So it was that Measure, college literary magazine, was over two weeks late in reaching the students.

Cancel Poetry Meeting

The regular meeting of the Catholic Poetry Society scheduled for last Sunday was cancelled because of the absence of the moderator, the Rev. Dr. Paul Speckbaugh, C.P.P.S., and because the lecture planned could not be arranged.

Inter-Hall Games On I-M Schedule

Inter-hall games have been added to the intra-mural basketball schedule. Seifert defeated Drexel in the first game and Noll crushed Xavier in the other contest.

Ed Cooper of Drexel holds the single game scoring mark of twenty-three points. Joe Doran, of Seifert, previously had made twenty-one counters in a single contest.

good. An international air squadron is impossible."

Pens Scratch Paper As Student Writers Prepare For Contests

Pen in hand, student writers began to think about the creative writing contests which will loom on the horizon next semester. Wide open to the competitors are the Alumni Essay and the Mary J. Pursley contests.

To enter the Alumni Essay contest, a student must submit his entries on or before April 1. Closing date for the Mary J. Pursley contest is now fixed at May 10.

The Alumni Essay contest is limited to material of the essay type. Three copies—for as many judges—must be submitted to a professor who will be designated later. Judges are picked from among the alumni of St. Joseph's.

Wider in scope, the Mary J. Pursley creative writing contest calls for the most original work dealing in Catholic fiction, drama, essay, or poetry. The winning paper will receive an award of fifty dollars. The three copies must be handed in to the head of the English department or to one of the English professors. Again, three copies must be submitted.

Pseudo-names are, of course, used on the works submitted. The real name and the alias must be handed in together in an envelope which will be held for the judges' decision and then opened.

D.M.U. To Hear Talks By Members Jan. 17

During the regular monthly meeting, the Dwenger Mission Unit will hear two speakers give short lectures. Dominic Gerlach will speak on "Urban Immigration" and the problem which it offers. Robert Silk will speak on some phase of the negro missions.

These talks are expected to be interesting, for each speaker has sufficient background. Dominic Gerlach comes from Mercer County, Ohio, where he has had ample opportunity to see the immigration to the city from the farm. Robert Silk, from Memphis, Tennessee, has had first-hand contact with the negro problem.

Phase Out In April Says Editor Keehner

According to John Keehner, senior from Youngstown, Ohio, editor of the yearbook, Phase is progressing satisfactorily and should be ready for publication about April 15. Keehner announced his editorial staff and said that all staff members are working hard to have all pictures in the hands of the engravers by Jan. 15, and all copy in the hands of the printer by Feb. 1.

The editorial staff announced is as follows: Francis Kinney, assistant editor; Robert Schultheis, Anthony Tyska, Eugene Hoffman and Paul Mainzer, associate editors; John Feicht and Pete Varini, sports editors; Walter Donahue, photo editor; and Leonard Herriges, art editor. Herriges has all of his work completed and sent to the engraver already.

Cover Design Approved

Keehner stated that the cover design has been approved and sent to the printers, and that work on the other departments is progressing as well as can be expected.

Any student who leaves the college before Phase is released, should make arrangements in the registrar's office, or with John Keehner or Bill Smith, to have his copy sent to him.

Academy Newman Club To Present Three-Act Comedy

On January 19, the Newman Club will present "His Father's Son" in the College Theatre. It is being directed by Rev. Robert Koch, C.P.P.S.

The play, a three-act comedy, was written by Miss Bridgman, the author of such hits as "The Turn in the Road," "A Case for Sherlock Holmes," and "The Queen of Hearts."

The play opens as the boys of Maplehurst Prep School are about to leave on Thanksgiving vacation. Plans are suddenly upset when the examination papers of one of the professors are suddenly stolen. All the evidence points to Douglas Doyle, portrayed by Gerald Leahy.

But Doug at this time thinks his father, played by Jim Dobe, is not being fair to him in financial matters. Therefore he does not care about the threat of expulsion and accepts the blame, even though he is innocent. From this real complications arise.

Fifteen Empty Chairs As Classes Resume

Latest figures from the office of the Dean of Students indicate that the enrollment in the college department decreased during the Christmas holidays as fifteen students withdrew from school.

In most cases, reasons for withdrawals were based upon the fact that in the near or immediate future these students will be called for military service in the armed forces.
